

Boschhoek Update November 2012

Boschhoek in November is something to behold! Below is a medley of beguiling pictures – it's but a taste of the real bush, but it does give a sense of what Boschhoek is about.

Macrobert tells me that our buyers' cooperation in signing the transfer documents is exemplary. Viewed from Boschhoek's perspective, however, this only makes sense. With up to two hectares or more of the most amazing bush up for grabs from R399 000, with another almost 1500 hectares of mountains, plains, streams and views thrown in for good measure, the offering is hard to resist. On top of that, the fact that there is no restriction on either minimum size or style of bush lodges, provided these blend in with the bush, allows one the freedom to express one's own sense of living in nature for as little or as much as one may wish.

The recent legislation change may cause this to be the last opportunity for a full title bush property, and prices are bound to go up. Whilst this may provide some additional perspective on our buyers' commitment and Boschhoek's ongoing sales, the real reason for Boschhoek's success can only be experienced by allowing our field guide Jandre Higgo to take you exploring. Kindly call in advance to arrange, and do round it off with a lovely light lunch at Leeuwenhof Lodge and Spa next door for a memorable day outing.

For some more bush lodge ideas, have a look at these pictures of Cape Nature's new cottages at the Rocherpan Nature reserve.

Look out for Boschhoek's next full page ad in the Beeld this Saturday, as well as on the back page of Rapport's Rondrits section on Sunday!

Bush Greetings!
